Quality Child Care

Selecting Quality Child Care

Selecting a childcare provider can be an overwhelming experience. The quality of your child's experience in an early childhood program has a direct impact on your child's ability to learn, to build healthy relationships, and be prepared for the elementary school classroom.

You have many options when making these choices. Your child can be supervised in a state licensed child care program, group provider or family child care home.

The differences in these providers can be significant.

- Family childcare is held in the caregiver's home and limits the total number of children in care to six. Usually there is only one caregiver but they should have a back-up person in the event of an emergency. Family providers will often provide flexible options such as overnight or weekend care.
- Group providers are limited to 12 children but are required to have more than one staff member to maintain their ratio.
- Child care centers can range from small programs of less than ten children to very large programs of over 200. Centers will usually group children by age in classrooms with teachers and caregivers assigned to a group. Centers can be found in commercial space, churches, hospitals, school district buildings or other privately owned facilities.

Check out this newsletter next month when we will discuss what to look for when touring a program!

Resource & Referral

Resource & Referral with the ELRC

While many people know the Early Learning Resource Center (ELRC) as a place to apply for subsidized child care for working families, many do not know that it also serves as a one stop shop for all resources in their community.

The resources and referrals the ELRC can provide, go way beyond just help in finding quality child care. Our family specialists are extremely knowledgeable about the resources in the community they serve, and can point families in the right direction no matter what services they need.

ELRC and its staff can assist in:

- finding resources for behavioral support for child(ren)

- mental health therapy
- drug and alcohol counseling
- housing resources
- food banks and many other areas of assistance

One need the ELRC has seen is families seeking information on housing and homelessness services. The local county assistance office has numerous programs to help struggling families with housing needs.

One program that the CAO has to offer is the Emergency Rental Assistance Program, or ERAP. This program helps people pay back rent and utilities and was designed to help those dealing with the lasting economic impacts of the Coronavirus Pandemic. Apply via the Compass website, or by going to the ERAP website for information to apply in-person.

Contact the ELRC office for assistance.

Tax Assistance

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program offers free tax help to people who make $57,000 or less, persons with disabilities, and limited English-speaking taxpayers who need assistance in preparing their tax returns. Families can usually find VITA sites in community and neighborhood centers, libraries, schools, shopping malls, and other convenient locations. To locate an open site near you, use the VITA Locator Tool or call (toll-free) 888-227-7669.
