Bucks County Opportunity Council Weatherization Assistance

If you have a limited income but pay high energy bills, the Bucks County Opportunity Councils weatherization program may be able to help you cut those costs and make your home more comfortable in all seasons.

An energy auditor will inspect your home and recommend certain measures such as caulking windows, weather-stripping doors, insulating the attic, or tuning the heater. The result? Your energy bills will be lower, and you will be warmer in the winter and cooler in the summer!

The weatherization program is FREE to eligible applicants. The program may be funded by the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the Bucks County Opportunity Council.

There is no charge to apply or for weatherization services.

Helping Your Child Build Relationships

Each month, this newsletter touches on ways to support your child in developing healthy relationships. Last month we discussed ways to respect your child's feelings

Tip #5 - Play Games that Explore Feelings

Use puppets to act out a young child's typical frustrations or fears, like having to share toys with a playmate, adjusting to a new baby, or separating from loved ones. Make drawings or hats for different emotions, and talk about pictures in books that communicate feelings. Also, watch what your child "tells" you during his play—it can be a window into his inner thoughts and feelings. For example, if your child dresses up in mommy clothes and acts out leaving her teddy bear at the babysitter's house, she may be wondering about separations. You can help her think through these big ideas and feelings by playing along and perhaps reminding her that, while Teddy misses his mama, he knows his mama always comes back.

Check back on this newsletter each month for another relationship tip!

Importance of Healthy Social Connections for Kids

Social connections are important for all of us, and healthy social connections are especially important for children. Our connections help us develop a sense of well-being and support.

Learning to develop them begins in early childhood, by following these helpful tips below:

- Don't force it - Don't force your child to do activities, encourage them to explore new things and find something they like.
- Encourage connections beyond online - It is important for children to seek connections outside of the online world.
- Recognize social anxiety - If your child experiences social anxiety, it is important to get them help early, so they can build healthy social connections.
- Identify common interests - Encourage your child to identify common interests with others. This can be their favorite music, games, books, movies, or sports.
- Encourage positive body language - Model positive body language with your children such as smiling, speaking confidently, and making eye contact appropriately.
- Be a good listener - Encourage your child to listen to others before they jump in with questions or comments.

- Encourage questions - Listening and speaking confidently are important skills, but it is also important to learn to ask good questions to strengthen social connections.

Child Development

Tips for boosting your baby's language skills

From the moment a baby is born, the young infant begins a journey of trying to communicate with its caregivers and express its response to the outside world experiences. With time, caregivers begin to pick up on infant cues in hopes to understand their needs, and through trial and error, caregivers begin to understand the baby's developing form of communication and language. Babies benefit when they are exposed to rich language. Studies have shown, that what really helps young children to develop and build language skills is by having personal interactions through conversations between older children, adults and the growing baby.

Family Feedback Needed!

Pennsylvania families are needed to support future early childhood teachers. By sharing your experience with faculty at local colleges and universities you can have an impact! Research shows early childhood teachers benefit from hearing family perspectives on how programs such as childcare, Pre-K Counts, and Head Start partner with families.

Interested families should complete the application by November 18. Please see this Recruitment Flyer for more details and link to the application. If you have any questions, please reach out to Sarah Holland at holland@parenttoparent.org.

Health & Safety

Getting and Staying Healthy

The health and safety of children is a top priority of most parents and caretakers. Families consistently make decisions to protect their children, keep them safe and help them thrive. Many things may come to mind when we think of health and safety. Some may think of nutrition, physical activity, mental health or doctor's visits when children are sick and when they are well. No matter what comes to mind, giving children tools to succeed and prepare for what to expect may help ease anxiety for children and parents.

Many children may be uneasy about going to the doctor because they do not know what to expect. They may have some of the below questions:

- What happens at the doctor's office?
- Who will I see during the visit?
- What types of clothes will they be wearing?
- What types of equipment or tools may they use?
- What types of questions will they ask?

The attached Sesame Street in Communities newsletter provides resources for parents to help prepare children for medical visits. It will help to explore what to expect before visiting a doctor and also how to communicate when they are not feeling their best.

Oral Health

Taking Care of Your Oral Health When You Are Pregnant

Taking good care of your oral health is important for you and your baby. It is safe and important to get oral health care when you are pregnant. Practicing good oral hygiene, eating healthy foods, and getting oral health care will help keep you and your baby healthy.

Here are some tips for keeping your mouth and teeth healthy when you are pregnant:

- Eat healthy foods, like whole-grain products; fruits; vegetables; and low-fat milk, cheese, cottage cheese, and unsweetened yogurt. Meats, fish, chicken, eggs, beans, and nuts are also good choices.
- Drink water, especially between meals and snacks. Drink tap water that has fluoride.
- Eat healthy snacks, like fruits; vegetables; and low-fat milk, cheese, cottage cheese, and unsweetened yogurt.
- Eat fewer sweets like candy, cookies, cake, and dried fruits. Drink fewer sugary drinks like fruit-flavored drinks, pop (soda), and fruit juice. If you eat sweets or drink sugary drinks, have them only at mealtimes.
- Brush your teeth with a soft toothbrush and fluoride toothpaste twice a day, after breakfast and before bed. Do not rinse after brushing. The small - amount of toothpaste that stays in your mouth is good for the teeth.

- Floss once a day before bed.
- Rinse every night with an over-the-counter alcohol-free mouth rinse with fluoride.
- If you vomit, rinse your mouth with a teaspoon of baking soda in a cup of water. This helps prevent damage to your teeth.
- Get oral health care. If your last dental visit took place more than 6 months ago or if you have any oral health problems or concerns, schedule a dental appointment as soon as possible.
- Tell the dental clinic that you are pregnant and your due date. This information will help staff provide the best care for you
