Rapid Response Team

The Rapid Response Team provides prompt support in the event a child is at risk of suspension or expulsion. It is a short-term, collaborative approach, designed to connect families and providers with existing tools and resources. Supports are customized to fit a child's or teacher's needs.

Requests can be made using this RRT Referral form. Referrals are processed on a first come, first served basis and we ask that providers prioritize one child referral at a time. One of the goals of the RRT is that strategies and supports will be used across classrooms at the provider so that all children and staff will benefit from these supports.

Before submitting a referral, please discuss with the parent as parental consent is required. Child observations, screenings, and parent conferences should also have been completed so that you can provide the referral coordinator with detailed information regarding the case.

If you have any questions regarding the RRT supports, please reach out to your Quality Coach.

In Memoriam

Janet Oboshie Wentum dedicated her life to children, families, and education. With over 30 years of experience as both an educator and a mental health therapist, she combined her compassion and expertise to make a lasting impact in the early care field. In 2010, she founded Christian Child Cares to provide quality child care for families working nontraditional hours, creating a safe space filled with love, laughter, and learning. Janet's passion for helping others succeed was evident not only in her work with children, but also in her commitment to mentoring and supporting small businesses and serving on community boards. She will be remembered as a woman of faith, vision, and deep love for children and families

ELRC Updates

CCW Reminders

- Please remember to review your invoice each month before submitting. Check that all children who are enrolled are listed and that those who have left the program, have been removed. Report any changes to your Provider Specialist.
- Please let your Provider Specialist know when there are changes to a child's enrollment. If you notice a pattern of absences, discuss with the family to see if an adjustment to their schedule is needed, rather than add to their 40-day absence count.
- If you are a new director and would like any support with Child Care Works, reach out to your Provider Specialist or Quality Coach. They are happy to schedule a meeting with you to review processes and answer any questions you may have.

2025 Market Rate Survey

Providers are being asked to complete the 2025 Child Care Market Rate Survey between September 8 and December 8, 2025.

The Office of Child Development and Early Learning (OCDEL) is required to collect up-to-date tuition information from all licensed providers every three years. This survey helps OCDEL set child care subsidy payment rates that are reflective of the private pay market. Even if your program doesn't accept subsidies, your information is still important. When all providers complete the survey, the data gives a more accurate picture of child care tuition rates across Pennsylvania.

Why your participation matters:

- The results help set payment rates for child care subsidies over the next few years.
- When more providers respond, rates are fairer and reflect real tuition rates.
- It supports policies that better reflect the real structure and value of child care services statewide.
- It strengthens the case for public investment in child care for everyone.
- If you don't respond, decisions may be based on other programs that don't reflect your rates.

Want to know more? OCDEL Bureau of Certification has released a Podcast to discuss the benefits of the Market Rate Survey and how it directly affects child care providers. Listen here.

Rapid Response Team Tip of the Month Creating a classroom space to support social and emotional development

Creating a safe and inviting space in an early childhood center/program is crucial for supporting children's social and emotional development. The physical environment plays a key role in how children interact with one another, regulate their emotions, and feel a sense of belonging and security.

Create Zones for Different Activities: Designate specific areas for various activities, allowing children to choose spaces based on their emotional needs and preferences. These zones should be clearly defined but flexible.

- Quiet Zone: A calm space with soft seating, pillows, or mats where children can retreat when they need to relax, self-regulate, or reflect. It may also include calming visuals like nature scenes or soft lighting.
- Cooperative Play Zone: This is an area where children can engage in collaborative activities such as building materials, dramatic play, or group projects. Include materials like costumes, blocks, and pretend setups.
- Art & Creativity Zone: A space with easels, paper, crayons, and other creative materials where children can express their emotions through art. This zone can promote emotional expression and creativity.
- Ensure Accessibility and Comfort: Make sure the space is welcoming to children by considering their physical and emotional comfort. Use child-sized furniture like tables, chairs and cushions that make children feel comfortable.
- Warm and welcoming atmosphere: Use soft, calming colors like pastel blues, greens and yellow. These colors help create a soothing environment that is not overstimulating.
- Natural Light: Maximize natural light when possible. Natural light has a calming effect and helps regulate mood. Use light, sheer curtains to let in sunlight without overwhelming the space.
- Sensory-Friendly Space: Include sensory-rich materials like tactile toys, textured fabrics, calming scents (like lavender), or soft music to help children who need sensory input or who are overstimulated. This could include a small water table or soft light-up toys.

Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) Tools

- Emotion Regulation Tools: Provide small tools such as fidget toys, stress balls or weighted blankets that help children manage their emotions.
- Social Stories and Visual Cues: Use visuals (such as posters or cards) with simple social stories or steps on how to express emotions, manage conflicts, or ask for help. This supports children's learning in social-emotional regulation.

October is Farm to ECE Month

Farm to ECE strategies and activities for early childhood environments focus on:

- Using local food – buying or using locally sourced foods in meals and snacks
- Gardening – offering hands-on opportunities for growing and caring for plants
- Food, nutrition, and agriculture education – teaching about healthy foods, where food comes from, and how it grows

The early years are an important time for forming taste preferences and building healthy eating habits. Farm to ECE offers several benefits, including:

- Healthier eating habits – Farm to ECE encourages healthy eating habits by giving children fresh, locally sourced foods. Children are more likely to try foods they have helped grow, clean, or prepare. It's a great way to encourage them to eat more nutritious foods.
- Stronger communities – Buying local food supports farmers and makes your community food system stronger. It also gives families and staff information about where to get local food in their community. Buying locally often creates a sense of belonging, especially for familiar or traditional foods that are part of children's cultures.
- Mental wellness – Gardening can increase pride, self-confidence, and a sense of accomplishment. Garden spaces can also reduce stress, improve focus, provide teaching opportunities, build social connections, and support emotional regulation for children and staff.

Here are some tips to build your farm to ECE program:

- Use state resources to learn more about farm to ECE and how it fits with your program's goals. Find tools and guidance for finding activities that fit into your program activities.
- Connect with Master Gardener programs, cooperative extensions at universities, and local farmer associations for expert advice and support.
- Start small and build slowly. Choose one or two activities. For example, start with small container gardens or introduce locally grown fruits and vegetables with meals.
- Create a pollinator garden where children can experience nature, practice mindfulness, and regulate their emotions.
- Include age-appropriate garden activities, from infant sensory exploration to preschool projects.

Keystone STARS Tip of the Month Family Handbooks

The purpose of a family handbook is to share the policies and procedures of your program with the families that you serve. It's also an opportunity to share your program's strengths and to provide clear expectations so that families can determine if your program will be a good fit for their child.

Family handbooks should be reviewed at least annually and be revised whenever necessary. Requesting input from staff can also be helpful when updating your handbook. They may be aware of trends or concerns that could be addressed with updated policies. If your handbook has been created electronically it can easily be updated and sent out to your families.

Your family handbook is a reflection of your business, your educational philosophy and your daily policies and procedures. It provides clear communication between families, staff and the director and should be updated as needed. If you are looking for a sample handbook or want to know what policies should be included in your handbook, contact your Quality Coach who will provide a variety of samples and resources.

Oral Health

Choosing Healthy Drinks for Young Children

Providers should be mindful about what drinks are served to children while in care. Limit drinks with natural or added sugar. Even 100% fruit juice is full of sugar that can lead to tooth decay.

Tips for Choosing Healthy Drinks:

- Give children plain water with fluoride. Water from the tap (faucet) is safe and cheap.
- Give children milk at scheduled meal and snack times.
- Do not lay a child down for nap with a bottle or sippy cup. If you do, the bottle or sippy cup should contain only water, nothing else.
- Give children cut-up or whole fruit instead of fruit juice.
